Extension of the Use of Payor Numbers to Matters Involving Pending Patent Applications

Agency: Patent and Trademark Office, Commerce.
Action: Notice; Request for Comments.
Summary: The Patent and Trademark Office (PTO) requests written public comment on the advisability of the extension of the use of Payor Numbers to matters involving pending patent applications. Payor Numbers are currently used with respect to establishing a "fee address" for receipt of maintenance fee correspondence. The PTO is considering extending the Payor Number practice to matters involving patent applications. The use of such Payor Numbers would permit an attorney, agent or law firm to file a single paper containing a change of address, rather than a separate paper for each patent application affected by the change of address. The change of address in multiple patent applications through a single paper directed to the Payor Number would result in savings to both the attorney, agent or law firm and the PTO. Interested members of the public are invited to present written comments on any topic relating to the extension of the use of Payor Numbers.
Dates: Written comments on the topics presented in the supplementary section of this notice will be accepted by the PTO until May 16, 1995.
Addresses: Those intereseted in presenting written comments on the topics presented in the supplementary information, or any related topics, may mail their comments to the Commissioner of Patents and Trademarks, Washington, D.C. 20231, marked to the attention of Box DAC. In addition, comments may also be sent by facsimile transmission to (703) 308-6916, with a confirmation copy mailed to the above address, or by electronic mail messages over the Internet to payor@uspto.gov.

Written comments should include the following information:

- name and affiliation of the individual responding;
- an indication of whether comments offered represent views of the respondent's organization or are the respondent's personal views; and
- if applicable, information on the respondent's organization, including the type of organization (e.g., business, trade group, university, non-profit organization).

For Further Information Contact: Robert W. Bahr by telephone at (703) 308-6906, by facsimile at (703) 308-6916, or Jeffery V. Nase by telephone at (703) 305-9285, or by mail marked to the attention of Box DAC, addressed to the Commissioner of Patents and Trademarks, Washington, D.C. 20231.

Supplementary Information

I. Background

The PTO is considering extending the use of Payor Numbers to matters involving patent applications. Specifically, Payor Numbers are currently used with respect to establishing a "fee address" for receipt of maintenance fee correspondence, and the use of such Payor Numbers permit, inter alia, an attorney, agent or law firm to file a single change of address paper for the Payor Number, which change of address will be effective for every patent identified with the Payor Number, rather than requiring that separate change of address papers be filed for every patent affected by the change of address.

II. Issues for Public Comment

Any interested member of the public is invited to present written comments on any topic related to the extension of the use of Payor Numbers. The PTO is considering extending the Payor Number practice to matters involving patent applications to permit (1) the identification of the correspondence address of a patent application with a Payor Number such that a single change of address may be filed for the Payor Number, and thus every patent application identified with the Payor Number, and (2) the identification of a list of registered attorneys and/or agents with a Payor Number such that an applicant may in the Power of Attorney appoint those attorneys and/or agents associated with the Payor Number. The PTO requests written public comment on the advisability of this extension of the use of Payor Numbers, and the issues associated therewith.

Currently, when an attorney, agent or law firm changes correspondence address, a separate paper containing this change of address must be filed in every patent application affected by the change of address. 37 CFR 1.4(b). The identification of an application with a Payor Number will permit an attorney, agent or law firm to file a single paper containing this change of address, rather than a separate paper in each application, and this change of address paper will be applicable to all applications identified with the Payor Number. The identification of an application with a Payor Number will be optional, in that any application not identified with a Payor Number will not be affected by a change of address filed for a Payor Number, even if the correspondence address provided for such application is that of an attorney, agent, or law firm identified with a Payor Number. The change of address in multiple patent applications through a single paper directed to the Payor Number, rather than through individual letters directed to each application, would result in savings to both the attorney, agent or law firm and the PTO.

Currently, an applicant in the Power of Attorney must individually name those attorneys and/or agents to represent the applicant in a patent application. The association of a list of attorneys and/or agents with a Payor Number will permit an applicant to appoint all of the attorneys and/or agents associated with the Payor Number merely by reference to the Payor Number in the Power of Attorney, i.e., without individually listing the attorneys and/or agents in the Power of Attorney. The addition and/or deletion of an attorney or agent from the list of attorneys and/or agents identified with a Payor Number will result in the addition or deletion of such attorney or agent from the list of persons authorized to represent any applicant who appointed all of the attorneys and/or agents identified with such Payor Number. This will avoid the necessity for the filing of additional papers in each application affected by a change in the attorneys and/or agents of the law firm prosecuting the application. The appointment of attorneys and/or agents identified with a Payor Number will be optional, in that any applicant may continue to individually name those attorneys and/or agents to represent the applicant in a patent application.

Currently, the PTO must individually enter into the Patent Application Location and Monitoring (PALM) system the registration number for each attorney and/or agent appointed to represent the applicant in a patent application. The change of persons authorized to represent applicants in multiple patent applications through a single paper directing the PTO to change its records concerning the Payor Number, which would require only a single entry into the PALM system, rather than through individual letters directed to each application, which would require a separate entry into the PALM system for each affected application, would significantly reduce the amount of data which must be entered into the PALM system, and would thus result in savings to the PTO. In addition, permitting a change of persons authorized to represent applicants in multiple patent applications through a single paper directing the PTO to change its records concerning the Payor Number would result in similar savings to the attorney, agent, or law firm.

As the PTO will not recognize more than one correspondence address (37 CFR 1.34(c)), any inconsistencies between the correspondence address resulting from a Payor Number being provided in an application for the correspondence address and any other correspondence address provided in that application would be resolved in favor of the correspondence address of the Payor Number. Where an applicant appoints all of the attorneys and/or agents associated with a Payor Number as well as a list of individually named attorneys and/or agents, such action would be treated as only an appointment of all of the attorneys and/or agents identified with a Payor Number due to the potential for confusion and data entry errors in entering registration numbers from plural sources. If an applicant wished to appoint attorneys and/or agents in addition to those associated with a Payor Number, the additional attorneys and/or agents could be appointed through the use of an associate Power of Attorney.

Examples:

1. The following language would be effective to appoint those attorneys and/or agents individually listed, and provide the correspondence address of Payor Number 99,999.

I hereby appoint the following practitioners to prosecute this application and to transact all business in the Patent and Trademark Office connected therewith:

John Doe, Registration No. 99,991, Jane Doe, Registration No. 99,992 and Richard Doe, Registration No. 99,993.

Address all correspondence to: Payor Number 99,999.

2. The following language would be effective to appoint those attorneys and/or agents associated with, and provide the correspondence address of, Payor Number 99,999.

I hereby appoint the practitioners identified with the Payor Number provided below to prosecute this application and to transact all business in the Patent and Trademark Office connected therewith, and direct that all correspondence be addressed to that Payor Number:

Payor Number 99,999.

Amendment to Rules for Extension of Patent Term

Agency: Patent and Trademark Office, Commerce.
Action: Final Rule.
Summary: The Patent and Trademark Office (Office) is revising the rules directed to the extension of patent term to implement the provisions of Pub. L. 103-179, § 5; 107 Stat. 2040 codified at 35 U.S.C. 156(d)(5) and to clarify the requirements for eligibility. The amended rules establish procedures for the Commissioner to issue an interim extension of the term of a patent where the original term would expire before a product covered by the patent has received regulatory approval for commercial marketing or use. The amended rules also clarify that an application for patent term extension must be based on regulatory activities performed by the patent owner or its agent.
Effective Date: July 11, 1995.
For Further Information Contact: Gerald A. Dost by telephone at (703) 305-9285 or by mail addressed to Commissioner of Patents and Trademarks, Washington, D.C. 20231 marked to the attention of Mr. Dost, Office of the Deputy Assistant Commissioner for Patent Policy and Projects, or by FAX to (703) 308-6916.
Supplementary Information: Patent term extension has been available under 35 U.S.C. 156 for patents that claim certain products that are subject to regulatory review before being commercially marketed or used. Prior to enactment of 35 U.S.C. 156(d)(5), eligibility for patent term extension was dependent on regulatory approval of the product before the original patent term expired. 35 U.S.C. 156(d)(5) has made it possible, under appropriate circumstances, to obtain interim extensions of patent term where the regulatory process is likely to extend beyond the expiration of the patent term.

One purpose of the amended rules is to revise the present regulations contained in 37 CFR Part 1, Subpart F, to include provisions for interim extension of the patent term prior to regulatory approval of the product that can now form the basis of patent term extension. The amended rules set forth procedures that govern the content and submission of applications for an interim extension of a patent term, and procedures governing the interim extension determination and issuance of interim patent term extension certificates by the Office.

The initial guidelines directed to the preparation and filing of applications for interim extensions of patent terms as authorized by 35 U.S.C. 156(d)(5), were published as "Guidelines For Interim Extension Under 35 U.S.C. § 156(d)(5) of a Patent Term Prior To Regulatory Approval of a Product For Commercial Marketing or Use - Public Law 103-179 (December 3, 1993)" in the Official Gazette at 1159 Off. Gaz. Pat. Office 12 (February 1, 1994). The Final Rule supplements these initial guidelines. To the extent that they conflict with the interim guidelines, the Final Rule governs.

It is important to keep in mind the distinction between an interim patent term extension under § 156(e)(2) and the interim patent term extension provided for by 35 U.S.C. 156(d)(5), under § 156(d)(5). The former applies after regulatory approval has occurred and is addressed in 37 CFR 1.760. Interim patent term extensions under § 156(e)(2) are not affected by the amendments to the rules. The latter applies before regulatory approval has occurred and is addressed in 37 CFR 1.780 and 1.790.

The eligibility criteria for obtaining an interim extension under § 156(d)(5) are substantially the same as for obtaining patent term extension under § 156 after regulatory approval has occurred. Under the provisions of 35 U.S.C. 156(d)(5), a patent owner or its agent may submit an application for an interim patent term extension within six months, but not later than 15 days, of the original expiration date of the patent. At the time the application is submitted, the regulatory review period must have advanced to the approval phase as defined in § 156(g), but must not have ended. For a new drug, for example, the approval phase is defined in § 156(g)(1)(B)(ii) as the period beginning on the date a new drug application was initially submitted for the new drug under § 505 of the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act.

The content of the application for interim extension is the same as for an application for patent term extension following regulatory review, with certain modifications necessitated by the circumstances. For example, the application for interim term extension will not be required to contain information about regulatory approval since that event has not occurred. A fee is required for each interim extension application filed before regulatory approval occurs - $400.00 for the initial application for interim extension and $200.00 for each supplementary application for interim extension.

The processing of an application for interim patent term extension under 35 U.S.C. 156(d)(5), will not require transmission of a copy of the application to the regulatory agency. However, it is contemplated that the Office will consult with the regulatory agency, as it has been doing for the past 10 years under § 156, on the question of eligibility for patent term extension.

If the patent is eligible for extension but for the fact that it is still under regulatory review, the Office can extend the patent term in one-year increments not to exceed five years from the expiration date. Any such extension would terminate 60 days after market approval. Before the 60-day period expires, the patentee could submit an application for patent term extension, supplying any additional information necessary to obtain any additional extension available under § 156.

The interim extension of patent term available under § 156(d)(5) cannot exceed the extension from the original patent term that would be available after regulatory approval. Thus, for example, a patent that was subject to the two-year extension limitation of § 156(g)(6)(C), could not obtain interim extension beyond two years from the original patent term expiration date. However, after an interim extension under § 156(d)(5) has been granted, the amount of patent term extension available after regulatory review is controlled by either § 156(d)(5) or § 156(g)(6)(A) or (B). In no case would the extension go beyond five years from the original expiration date of the patent. However, for those situations falling under § 156(g)(6)(C), where regulatory approval occurs within the two-year period after the original expiration date of the patent, the extension after approval is measured from the date on which the product receives permission for commercial marketing or use. § 156(d)(5)(E)(ii).

Review of recent applications for patent term extension has revealed that the provisions of 37 CFR 1.785(c) may be read as being inconsistent with 35 U.S.C. 156. The statute requires that an application for patent term extension be filed by the patent owner or its agent. 35 U.S.C. 156(d)(1). The statute further requires under § 156(d)(1)(D) a description of the activities undertaken by the applicant (i.e., the patent owner or its agent) during the regulatory review period, and specifies in § 156(d)(2)(B)(i) that the lack of due diligence by the applicant during the regulatory review period may be taken into account. Given these statutory requirements, the Office has held that in order to be eligible for patent term extension, the patent owner or its agent must have undertaken the activities that lead to regulatory approval. If a patent owner has not been involved, either directly or indirectly, in the regulatory review process, that patent owner has not lost any effective patent life since it never invested time and resources necessary to obtain approval for commercial marketing or use. Accordingly, to the extent that 37 CFR 1.785 could be interpreted to permit a patent owner to obtain a patent term extension where neither the patent owner nor its agent were responsible for activities leading to regulatory approval, it was misleading and contrary to both the letter and intent of § 156.

A notice of proposed rulemaking relating to Amendment to Rules for Extension of Patent Term was published in the Federal Register, 59 FR 56015, (November 10, 1994) and in the Official Gazette, 1169 Off. Gaz. Pat. Office 33 (December 13, 1994). A sole comment was received in response to this notice, but no change has been made in the text of the proposed amendments and additions to the rules.

The comment was directed to the proposed amendment to 37 CFR 1.785(c) when taken in light of 35 U.S.C. 156. The comment suggested that the party in interest before the regulatory agency (e.g., the Food and Drug Administration) should be the party to obtain a patent term extension, whether that party is the patent owner or licensee, and regardless of any "agency" relationship which may exist between the two with respect to such regulatory proceedings. This may be accomplished, it was argued, by construing the term "applicant" in 35 U.S.C. 156(d)(1)(D) and (d)(2)(B)(i) to mean the "applicant for regulatory approval."

In response, it is clear that under 35 U.S.C. 156(a)(3) and (d)(1), the "applicant" for patent term extension shall be either the "owner of record of the patent" or the party which may be construed to be "its agent," which requirement is repeated in 35 U.S.C. 156(d)(5)(A) and (d)(5)(C) with regard to interim extensions. Indeed, to hold otherwise in the manner suggested in the comment would violate the plain meaning of 35 U.S.C. 156(c)(1), which requires that the patent term extension period be reduced by the time that the "applicant for patent extension did not act with due diligence during such period of the regulatory review period." This section not only cites 35 U.S.C. 156(d)(2)(B) but also is consistent with the required description of activities undertaken during the applicable regulatory period set forth in 35 U.S.C. 156(d)(1)(D). The statute thus specifically requires that the application for patent term extension contain a description of the activities performed by the patent owner or its agent before the regulatory agency with regard to such proceedings, 35 U.S.C. 156(d)(1)(D), and further specifies that the lack of due diligence by the patent owner or its agent during the regulatory review period may be taken into account, 35 U.S.C. 156(c)(1) and (d)(2)(B)(i).

In addition to the constraints of the statutory language, the comment fails to identify any justification for granting a term extension on a patent where the patent owner has not, either directly or indirectly, incurred either the significant costs associated with regulatory approval or any delay in the commercial marketing of a product. Since the patent term extension provisions of § 156 are intended to be remedial in nature, providing a patent term extension to a patent owner who has not been harmed by the delay and costs associated with regulatory approval of a product would provide an unintended benefit to such a patent owner. In addition, providing a patent term extension to a patent owner that did not participate in the regulatory review process could also frustrate an important purpose of the statute, that is, to encourage companies to make the significant investment necessary to obtain regulatory approval and distribute the pharmaceutical product to the public, rather than placing a non-participating patent owner in a position to keep the product off the market during the extended term, to the detriment of the party that made the significant investment necessary to obtain regulatory approval.

Accordingly, not only does the plain language of the statute prohibit the statutory interpretation suggested in the comment, but also the purpose of the statute would not be fulfilled by construing "applicant" to mean the applicant for regulatory review.

Discussion of Specific Rules:

Section 1.750 is being amended, as proposed, to provide for an eligibility determination which will be made on applications for interim extension filed in compliance with § 1.790. The section is further modified to limit the mailing of a notice of a final determination to applications filed in compliance with § 1.740 after the regulatory approval process is complete.

Section 1.760 is being amended, as proposed, to require that the title recite that the section is directed to requests for interim extensions of patent term under 35 U.S.C. 156(e)(2), to distinguish it from interim extensions available under 35 U.S.C. 156(d)(5), addressed in § 1.780.

Section 1.765(a) is being amended, as proposed, to change the phrase (two occurrences) "the Office of the Secretary" to read "the Office or the Secretary." The change provides that the applicant has a duty of disclosure to both the Patent and Trademark Office and the Secretary of Health and Human Services or the Secretary of Agriculture.

Section 1.780 is being amended, as proposed, to provide that a certificate of interim extension under 35 U.S.C. 156(d)(5) will be issued to the applicant. Section 1.780 also provides for notification of the issuance of the certificate of interim extension under 35 U.S.C. 156(d)(5), including the identity of the product currently under regulatory review, to be published in the Federal Register.

Section 1.785 is being amended, as proposed, to require the applicant for extension, i.e., the patent owner or its agent, to also have been the marketing applicant who obtained regulatory approval of the product for commercial marketing or use. While regulatory approval can be obtained by a party other than the patent owner, that other party must have been an agent of the patent owner when obtaining the regulatory approval in order for the patent owner to be eligible to apply for extension of the patent term.

Section 1.790 is being added, as proposed, to provide for one or more interim extensions for periods of up to one year for patents where the applicable regulatory review period described in paragraph (1)(B)(ii), (2)(B)(ii), (3)(B)(ii), (4)(B)(ii), or (5)(B)(ii) of 35 U.S.C. 156(g) that began for the patented product may extend beyond the expiration of the patent term in effect.

Paragraph (a) of added § 1.790 defines the time periods in which the initial interim extension application and each subsequent interim extension application must be filed in the Office. In no event will interim extensions be granted under proposed § 1.790 for a period of extension longer than that to which the applicant would be entitled to under 35 U.S.C. 156(c).

Paragraph (b) of added § 1.790 establishes that the content requirements for the initial interim extension applications are substantially the same as the content requirements for a formal application for extension of patent term under § 1.740 and a complete application under § 1.741, except that the content requirements relate to a product currently undergoing regulatory review. In other words, the interim extension applications contain information available to the patent owner or its agent at the time the application is filed.

Paragraph (c) of added § 1.790 permits each interim extension application after the initial interim extension application to be limited to a request for a subsequent interim extension along with a statement that the regulatory review period has not been completed and any materials or information required under §§ 1.740 and 1.741 not present in the preceding interim extension application.

Section § 1.791 is being added, as proposed, to provide that any interim extension granted under 35 U.S.C. 156(d)(5) terminates at the end of the 60-day period beginning on the date on which the product involved receives permission for commercial marketing or use. If within that 60-day period the patent owner or its agent files additional information required under 35 U.S.C. 156(d)(1) not contained in the applications for interim extension, the patent shall be further extended in accordance with the provisions of 35 U.S.C. 156.

Other Considerations:

These rule changes are in conformity with the requirements of the Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 601 et seq., Executive Order 12612, and the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980, 44 U.S.C. 3501 et seq.

The Assistant General Counsel for Legislation and Regulation of the Department of Commerce has certified to the Chief Counsel for Advocacy, Small Business Administration, that these rules will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities (Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 605(b)), because the rules would affect only a very small number of patents eligible for interim patent term extension.

The Patent and Trademark Office has also determined that this notice has no Federalism implications affecting the relationship between the National Government and the States as outlined in Executive Order 12612.

These rule changes contain collection of information requirements subject to the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980, 44 U.S.C. 35 U.S.C. 156(d)(5) 3501 et seq., which have previously been approved by the Office of Management and Budget under Control Number 0651-0020. The public reporting burden for this collection of information for Petition Extension is estimated to average 60 hours each, including the time for reviewing instructions, searching existing data sources, gathering and maintaining the data needed, and completing and reviewing the collections of information. Send comments regarding this burden estimate, or any other aspect of this collection of information, including suggestions for reducing the burden, to Gerald A. Dost, Office of the Deputy Assistant Commissioner for Patent Policy and Projects, Box DAC, Washington, D.C. 20231, and to the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs, Office of Management and Budget, Washington, D.C. 20503 (ATTN: Paperwork Reduction Act Projects 0651-0020).

(1) Application for extension under § 1.740 ..... $1,030.00

(2) Initial application for interim extension under § 1.790 ..... $400.00

(3) Subsequent application for interim extension under § 1.790 ..... $200.00

3. Section 1.750 is revised to read as follows:

§ 1.750 Determination of eligibility for extension of patent term

A determination as to whether a patent is eligible for extension may be made by the Commissioner solely on the basis of the representations contained in the application for extension filed in compliance with § 1.740 or § 1.790. This determination may be delegated to appropriate Patent and Trademark Office officials and may be made at any time before the certificate of extension is issued. The Commissioner or other appropriate officials may require from applicant further information or make such independent inquiries as desired before a final determination is made on whether a patent is eligible for extension. In an application for extension filed in compliance with § 1.740, a notice will be mailed to applicant containing the determination as to the eligibility of the patent for extension and the period of time of the extension, if any. This notice shall constitute the final determination as to the eligibility and any period of extension of the patent. A single request for reconsideration of a final determination may be made if filed by the applicant within such time as may be set in the notice of final determination or, if no time is set, within one month from the date of the final determination. The time periods set forth herein are subject to the provisions of § 1.136.

4. In § 1.760, the heading is revised to read as follows:

§ 1.760 Interim extension of patent term under 35 U.S.C. 156(e)(2)

5. Section 1.765(a) is revised to read as follows:

§ 1.765 Duty of disclosure in patent term extension proceedings

(a) A duty of candor and good faith toward the Patent and Trademark Office and the Secretary of Health and Human Services or the Secretary of Agriculture rests on the patent owner or its agent, on each attorney or agent who represents the patent owner and on every other individual who is substantively involved on behalf of the patent owner in a patent term extension proceeding. All such individuals who are aware, or become aware, of material information adverse to a determination of entitlement to the extension sought, which has not been previously made of record in the patent term extension proceeding must bring such information to the attention of the Office or the Secretary, as appropriate, in accordance with paragraph (b) of this section, as soon as it is practical to do so after the individual becomes aware of the information. Information is material where there is a substantial likelihood that the Office or the Secretary would consider it important in determinations to be made in the patent term extension proceeding.

6. Section 1.780 is revised to read as follows:

§ 1.780 Certificate of extension of patent term

If a determination is made pursuant to § 1.750 that a patent is eligible for extension and that the term of the patent is to be extended, a certificate of extension, under seal, or certificate of interim extension under 35 U.S.C. 156(d)(5) will be issued to the applicant for the extension of the patent term. Such certificate will be recorded in the official file of the patent and will be considered as part of the original patent. Notification of the issuance of the certificate of extension will be published in the Official Gazette of the Patent and Trademark Office. Notification of the issuance of the certificate of interim extension under 35 U.S.C. 156(d)(5), including the identity of the product currently under regulatory review, will be published in the Official Gazette of the Patent and Trademark Office and in the Federal Register. No certificate of extension will be issued if the term of the patent cannot be extended, even though the patent is otherwise determined to be eligible for extension. In such situations the final determination made pursuant to § 1.750 will indicate that no certificate will issue.

7. Section 1.785 is revised to read as follows:

§ 1.785 Multiple applications for extension of term of the same patent or of different patents for the same regulatory review period for a product

(a) Only one patent may be extended for a regulatory review period for any product § 1.720 (h)). If more than one application for extension of the same patent is filed, the certificate of extension of patent term, if appropriate, will be issued based upon the first filed application for extension.

(b) If more than one application for extension is filed by a single applicant which seeks the extension of the term of two or more patents based upon the same regulatory review period, and the patents are otherwise eligible for extension pursuant to the requirements of this subpart, in the absence of an election by the applicant, the certificate of extension of patent term, if appropriate, will be issued upon the application for extension of the patent term having the earliest date of issuance of those patents for which extension is sought.

(c) If an application for extension is filed which seeks the extension of the term of a patent based upon the same regulatory review period as that relied upon in one or more applications for extension pursuant to the requirements of this subpart, the certificate of extension of patent term will be issued on the application only if the patent owner or its agent is the holder of the regulatory approval granted with respect to the regulatory review period.

(d) An application for extension shall be considered complete and formal regardless of whether it contains the identification of the holder of the regulatory approval granted with respect to the regulatory review period. When an application contains such information, or is amended to contain such information, it will be considered in determining whether an application is eligible for an extension under this section. A request may be made of any applicant to supply such information within a non-extendable period of not less than one (1) month whenever multiple applications for extension of more than one patent are received and rely upon the same regulatory review period. Failure to provide such information within the period for response set shall be regarded as conclusively establishing that the applicant is not the holder of the regulatory approval.

(e) Determinations made under this section shall be included in the notice of final determination of eligibility for extension of the patent term pursuant to § 1.750 and shall be regarded as part of that determination.

8. Section 1.790 is added to read as follows:

§ 1.790 Interim extension of patent term under 35 U.S.C. 156(d)(5)

(a) An owner of record of a patent or its agent who reasonably expects that the applicable regulatory review period described in paragraph (1)(B)(ii), (2)(B)(ii), (3)(B)(ii), (4)(B)(ii), or (5)(B)(ii) of subsection (g) that began for a product that is the subject of such patent may extend beyond the expiration of the patent term in effect may submit one or more applications for interim extensions for periods of up to one year each. The initial application for interim extension must be filed during the period beginning 6 months and ending 15 days before the patent term is due to expire. Each subsequent application for interim extension must be filed during the period beginning 60 days before and ending 30 days before the expiration of the preceding interim extension. In no event will the interim extensions granted under this section be longer than the maximum period of extension to which the applicant would be entitled under 35 U.S.C. 156(c).

(b) A complete application for interim extension under this section shall include all of the information required for a formal application under § 1.740 and a complete application under § 1.741. Sections (a)(1), (a)(2), (a)(4), and (a)(6) - (a)(17) of § 1.740 and § 1.741 shall be read in the context of a product currently undergoing regulatory review. Sections (a)(3) and (a)(5) of § 1.740 are not applicable to an application for interim extension under this section.

(c) The content of each subsequent interim extension application may be limited to a request for a subsequent interim extension along with a statement that the regulatory review period has not been completed along with any materials or information required under § 1.740 and § 1.741 that are not present in the preceding interim extension application.

9. Section 1.791 is added to read as follows:

§ 1.791 Termination of interim extension granted prior to regulatory approval of a product for commercial marketing or use

Any interim extension granted under 35 U.S.C. 156(d)(5) terminates at the end of the 60-day period beginning on the date on which the product involved receives permission for commercial marketing or use. If within that 60-day period the patent owner or its agent files an application for extension under § 1.740 and § 1.741 including any additional information required under 35 U.S.C. 156(d)(1) not contained in the application for interim extension, the patent shall be further extended in accordance with the provisions of 35 U.S.C. 156.

Reducing Regulatory Burden

President Clinton has made reduction of the regulatory burden on the American public an important goal of his administration, and he has asked each agency to review all its regulations with this goal in mind. We at the Patent and Trademark Office (PTO) share the President's goal, believing that our regulations should constantly be reviewed and updated to eliminate archaic and outdated regulations and to avoid burdening our customers anymore than necessary.

To accomplish these objectives. I am publishing with this notice PTO's present proposals to streamline and eliminate certain regulations. I ask you to review these proposals and provide any comment you may have. I am also seeking any additional suggestions to simplify, eliminate, or streamline PTO's rules particularly in a way that would reduce the burden they impose on PTO's customers. Please forward your comments and suggestions by July 10, 1995, to:

Reference Collections of U.S. Patents and Trademarks Available for Public Use in Patent and Trademark Depository Libraries

The following libraries, designated as Patent and Trademark Depository Libraries (PTDLs), receive patent and trademark information in various formats from the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office. Many PTDLs have on file all full-text patents issued since 1790, trademarks published since 1872, and select collections of foreign patents. All PTDLs have both the patent and trademark sections of the Official Gazette of the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office. The full-text utility and design patents are distributed numerically on 16 mm microfilm, and plant patents on color microfiche. Patent and trademark search systems on CD-ROM (Compact Disc-Read Only) format are available at all PTDLs to increase utilization of and enhance access to the information found in patents and trademarks. It is through the CD-ROM systems that preliminary patent and trademark searches can be conducted through the numerically arranged collections.

All information is available for use by the public free of charge.

In addition, each PTDL offers reference publications which outline and provide access to the patent and trademark classification systems, as well as other documents and publications which supplement the basic search tools. PTDLs provide technical staff assistance in using all materials. Facilities for making paper copies of patent and trademark information are generally provided for a fee.

Since there are variations in the scope of patent and trademark collections among the PTDLs, and their hours of service to the public vary, anyone contemplating use of these collections at a particular library is urged to contact that library in advance about its collections, services, and hours in order to avert possible inconvenience.

SECTION 1.—INTERNATIONAL CLASSIFICATION

The short titles associated below with the international class numbers are terms designed merely for quick identification and are not an official part of the international classification. The full names of international classes are given in section 6.1 of the trademark rules of practice.

The designation "U.S. Cl." appearing in this section refers to the U.S. class in effect prior to Sep. 1, 1973 rather than the international class which applies to applications filed on or after that date. For adoption of international classification see notice in the OFFICIAL GAZETTE of Jun. 26, 1973 (911 O.G. TM 210).
